A SEA TRAGEDY.

The Startling Story of the American Barkentine Herbert Fuller.

The sea has ever been a favorable scene with romancers for desperate conspiracies and tragic crimes. This has been due to the seclusion which it offers and also, perhaps, to the traditions of piracy which hang about it.

The story of the American barkentine Herbert Fuller, which the newspapers have been recently telling, however, is as tragically startling as any ever related by Stevenson or Russell.

Undoubtedly the Herbert Fuller tragedy will form the plot of many a future sea novel. But no romancer could have afforded to invent so extraordinary a tale.

BOUNTIES IN SEALS.

Maine Still Pays a Bounty and Last Year Raised It.

Maine paid bounties on 1,692 seals and on 305 bears in 1895. In 1894 only 385 seals and 550 bears were killed.

No one knows exactly why bounties are paid on black bears. They are harmless animals, according to competent observers, feeding on beechnuts, wild fruits of various kinds, on carrion, and roots of plants, seldom if ever molesting farmers in any way.

William's Culinary Department.

The German emperor has a curious arrangement with his kitchen department. The empress arranges his menus and he pays the cooks about two dollars for each plate, on ordinary occasions, and five to seven dollars on state occasions.

Succeeded to Death in a Stump.

George Bennett, of Eden, Ont., met with a horrible death the other evening. He was assisting in the operation of splitting large stumps with a jackscrew and had one nearly split, when he stepped into the opening.

A MOSQUITO INVADES ENGLAND.

New Jersey's Insect's Revenge for Violation of Monroe Doctrine.

The harrowing news comes from London that a mosquito has been taken alive in Hertfordshire. A gentleman living at Barley, Royston, writes to a London paper that on a recent evening he encountered the ferocious beast in his bedchamber.

An Englishman is always brave, and it seems almost superfluous to add that the man of Barley grappled with the creature single-handed, nor stayed his hand until it was under subjection.

Next to vindicating his personal bravery, an Englishman's first duty is to write to his newspaper and tell about it. To this admirable national trait the readers of the Sunday Herald are indebted for the particulars herein set forth.

It now remains only to unite the English people as one man against the invader. Hence this suggestion: "Let every person carefully examine his bedroom window in the morning and kill them, as by so doing they would be prevented laying their eggs and breeding."

Accompanying this slogan is a diagram what has been called the business end of the mosquito, which may be used for further identification of the dreaded foe, should he be encountered unawares.—N. Y. Herald.

The Pace That Kills.

"Every time I come to the United States," said Mr. Hugh Jamison, of London, England, "I find fresh cause for astonishment in the marvelous energy of the Yankee nation. It seems to me that the people work on this side for the sake of work, they appear to regard it not as a means to an end, but the end itself."

A Jewish Wedding Feast.

There were a great many people coming and going that day at the house of the wise Rabbi Isaac Ben Nassur. They were not all Cana people, by any means. The bride feast was spread in the large front room opening upon the porch, and all who had a right to enter were welcomed heartily.

Meaning of the Fleur-de-Lis.

The uniform of English drummers must be familiar enough to every Englishman, yet few know the significance of the spotted lace with which their tunics are decorated. The blue spot is the celebrated fleur-de-lis of France, which, being worn by the highest ranks in the French army, was, as a mark of military superiority, bestowed by the prince regent upon the lowest ranks.

Winans Bros. Win.

The Winans Bros, who were cited to appear before Judge Hanford at Spokane and show cause why they should not be fined for contempt for excluding Indians from fishing on deeded land, had a hearing on the 8th, and were dismissed. Judge Hanford deciding they were not in contempt. The defendants contended through their attorneys, Huntington & Wilson, that whatever rights are secured to Indians by treaties are subject to state laws, unless congress at the time the state is admitted to the Union withholds from the state the right to make laws which would contravene treaty rights.

It has been the claim on the part of the Indians that in giving up their lands to the U. S. government, they not only had the right to occupy their reservations, without molestation, but hunt and fish upon all public lands not actually resided upon by settlers. The state of Washington has a law by which fishermen may purchase beach lands between high and low water marks for fishing privileges, upon which others are not allowed to trespass. The Winans Bros. became possessed of certain lands in this manner upon which some Yakima Indians persisted in fishing, and the owners of the land, believing that Indians possessed no right which were forbidden a white citizen, ejected them therefrom. Hence the suit, which has now terminated in a victory for the Winans Bros.

Greatest One.

Li Hung Chang, one of the four great men whom General Grant discovered when he went around the world may turn out to be the greatest of them all. The others were Beaconsfield, Bismarck and Gambetta. The estimate of Beaconsfield by the generation that followed him is that he was not a great man of the first rank after all. Gambetta died too soon. Bismarck clouded his greatness by a horribly bad temper which wrought his downfall at last. Only Li Hung Chang, the powerful, wily, even tempered, deeply thinking Chinaman, is left, not a whit abated in honor influence or intellectual force though he is 74 years old.—Exchange.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphia. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur, in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
